

Masterclass: Servant Leadership in your daily practise

2017 Masterclass
Wednesday 6 SEPT. 2017

PROGRAM

0830 welcome
0900 start program
1230 lunch
1730 end of program,
networking and drinks

Venue

Flora Boskoop
Rosariumzaal
Parklaan 4
2771 GB Boskoop

Number of Participants
min 10 - max. 25

More information and application
marcella@bosmatchworks.nl
06-11495189

Costs
€250,= per person, excl.
21% BTW

50% of the Benefit after costs is invested in education and leadership development through MasterPeace & Across
Maasai Land Initiative
(AMLI)

About the Masterclass

In this unique Masterclass participants will meet Ezekiel Ole Katato. He is a high respected Elder and Chief of his Maasai Community in the Kilimanjaro area in Kenya. An educated man, who returned to his tribe and culture after his study, to empower young talents, to improve education and to develop towards a sustainable community.

More and more of today's and future leaders in western society are educated in servant leadership. Ezekiel didn't follow any course or training; he is a servant leader by nature.

In this Masterclass we combine the storytelling and wisdom of Ezekiel's natural and servant leadership with some interesting models on connecting people: The 4 Quadrant Model of Ken Wilber, Situational Leadership and the Flow Compass.

Each participant will have a unique experience, unexpected eye-openers and practical tailor-made tips to bring servant leadership into practice in an integral, positive and inclusive way.

All participants receive a handout.

About the trainers

Ezekiel Ole Katato is founder and Executive Director at Across Maasai Land Initiative, an Elder, Culturalist and Advocate for Social Justice. Marcella: "My dear friend and Maasai Elder Ezekiel Ole Katato is a strong and authentic leader and an example of a servant leader with a strong vision. Ezekiel is an influential Elder and leader in his Maasai Culture in Kenya. Being a leader in a traditional culture with many strong rituals does not withhold him from being open for positive new influences and insights from other cultures. He gives trust to the young talents of his tribe and beyond. He strongly supports and facilitates the empowerment of the woman, by stimulating the girls to study. He makes it possible for both young warriors and girls to participate in the annual International Masterpeacewalk in Maasailand. His English is fluent and he is valued as keynote or inspirational speaker at any conference on leadership, peacebuilding, cultural change, indigenous tribes, nature and sustainability".

Marcella Bos works for Bos Matchworks as trainer, facilitator, teamcoach and mentor.

Ezekiel: "Marcella Bos is a humble but focused woman with a passion in developing and nurturing talents and leadership skills. She is also involved in peace building and helping grass root organizations in peace building events. Marcella was behind the organizing of the now famous international Masterpeace walk through Maasai land and is now working to transfer the same skills to Nepal. Through her strategic trainings and workshops she helps build capacities of institutions to enable them maximize talents within their institutions, inspire workers to give their best and be more productive as well as promote inclusive and sustainable business models".

50% of the benefit after costs will be re-invested in activities to stimulate education and develop leadership both in Maasailand and on a global scale via MasterPeace.

the match that works